

Home Health Aide

INDUSTRY FACTS

What do home health aides do?

Home health aides wear a lot of hats. They're companions, healthcare professionals, life coaches, and—in many ways— therapists. Here's a breakdown of their responsibilities:

- Assisting clients with daily tasks like bathing, dressing, organizing, and scheduling appointments
- Vacuuming, washing dishes, doing laundry, etc.

Where do they work?

Most home health aides work in clients' homes, while others work in small group homes or larger care facilities. Most work full time and some may work weekends / holidays depending on their clients' needs.

How much do they earn?

According to the U.S. Bureau of Labor and Statistics, the average salary for this role is $24,000. Remember that salaries vary based on location, facility, and experience level.

How's the job outlook?

Employment of home health aides is projected to grow 36% through 2028, much faster than other occupations.

"I was very impressed with what CareerStep had to offer. Affordable pricing for a comprehensive program, combined with the support and flexibility I needed. A perfect choice!"
